POWERS STIRS UP DEMONSTRATION

Chautauqua Crowd Rushes to Platform to get Chance to Grasp Hand of Young Kentuckian Recently Released After Eight Long Years in Prison—Speech Moves Audience
To Fervor of Enthusiasm.

IN FRAIL HEALTH AFTER LONG IMPRISONMENT

More Than 3,000 People Come to Hear Lecture and Seem to be Convinced of his Innocence—Tells Simply and Impres-sively the Story of his Life, and the Accusation Against him. How it Feels to be condemned to Death.

"I have drunk to the dregs the bitter which few have drunk. I have taken the bitter with the sweet, and have drained the cup.

"At times my life has been as happy as a river gliding through the land in springtime. At others my heart has fled, and the light of life nearly gone out. My life has been a mixture of reverence and mirth, of happiness and sorrow, of right and wrong. But now it is sweet, gloriously sweet, and to those who are wrongfully accused I would say:

"Wherever you may be, in whatever circumstances you may be, remember that Truth is Eternal, that safety lies in courage and in the conviction of a true heart. Remember that Truth and Justice, slowly as they may move, but nevertheless surely, will free him of a free conscience and free heart whom injustice may oppress."—Exclamation of Caleb Powers' Address at Springfield Ohio.

Greeted with loud clapping of hands when he stepped on the platform, urged with the cries of hundreds when he wished to stop the account of his bitter life; vociferously applauded when he said his closing word, and nearly crushed in the mad rush of men and women in their efforts to shake the hand of the greatest political prisoner America has ever seen—Caleb Powers—for eight years stained with the charge of murder in his native State of Kentucky, came late appeared on the platform of the Springfield Chautauqua, Saturday afternoon.

Not for months has there been such a demonstration. Powers, accustomed to the silence of a prison, was the only one quiet. In a mad rush half of the audience made for the platform. A little more and it would have sunk. Seeing that the crowd was wild with enthusiasm, and Powers broken and in a tremble with the exertions of the day, President Heckert and others of the Chautauqua lead him away. The crowd followed—they pressed on, and soon he was surrounded on the ground as he had been on the stage. They were asked to keep back, but men and women knew nothing. "Let me shake your hand," "Congratulations," "Glad you are free," they cried, and the hubbub could still be heard when Mr. Powers, hardly able to stand, reached the entrance to the grounds there to his torn nerves. Behind him were streaming old and young, rich and poor, trying to get a look at and shake the hand of the man, the central figure in the greatest political storm that has ever torn the commonwealth of Kentucky.

After talking for an hour, he wished to stop. Then arose the cries of, "Go on, go on," "Don't stop," yelled to the measure of loud whistling. Thirty minutes more he went on, the audience straining ear, listening to every word, silence reigned—until the mad rush for the platform. There were farmers and business men in the rush. Hands came from the right and left, from front and behind, sticking from the crowd as the snakes on the head of Medusa. All around was Powers surrounded with hands stretching towards him like the tentacles of an octopus. The platform groaned. Powers saw all, yet nothing. He shook hands, but knew not with whom he shook. Everyone was massed in the overpowering sight. Men followed upon man, women under woman, all waiting to greet the man of many sorrows. When he was virtually pulled from the platform by the officers in their attempt to get him safely from the crowd, they jumped over the railing and following him along the creek. All along the line to the entrance there was some one to meet and greet him.

Just as Mr. Powers descended from the platform, an aged colored woman, probably one of the old "mamies" from Dixie or from old "Kaintuck," hobbled up with eighty winters on her back, and almost on her knees, cried out: "For eight years I have prayed for you. Thank God you are free!" Few saw this—all pressed on—until Powers was swallowed up in a carriage and driven away for a much needed rest.

SPANISH SHOOOL

For Barbourville September
1, With Large Class.

Prof. Lytle announces that a sufficient number of pupils have already promised subscriptions to justify the statement that the Spanish school for Barbourville and neighborhood will be promptly opened September 1. The classes will be conducted from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock each evening, Sundays and holidays excepted, at the Baptist Institute, under the auspices of the faculty of that well-known institution of learning, some of whom Mr. and Mrs. Dittweiler, especially, will hold honorary membership as teachers of Spanish with Professor Lytle, in these classes for which their scholarly attainments in general and their proficiency in Spanish from long residence as teachers in Spanish-speaking countries peculiarly qualify them, so that in these evening classes the faculty will be practically Spanish-speaking teachers and the classes conducted as if in Guatemala or Costa Rica. Pupils will see, here, life from the Spanish viewpoint. In taking leave of this subject we are prompted to add that the leading business men of this country and our ministers, consuls and public spirited men everywhere are putting forth such an effort just now to get our share of the trade of Spanish-America as has never been made heretofore for the reason that that trade has never been so valuable, and it is becoming prospectively more and more so, and it goes almost without saying that every young man with average ability, good moral character and a practical knowledge of the Spanish tongue can obtain lucrative and steady employment with any of our larger mercantile establishments who are reaching out for this fabulously rich Latin-American trade. Instead of seeing scores of our promising and energetic young mountaineers staying around home looking for some job. How would it be to have hundreds of them introducing our wares and customs at good salaries in Mexico, South America, Central America and Philippine Islands and returning to their mountain homes a steady stream of "coin of the realm" or good "yellow metal" from the mines of those countries such as has not flowed into any section since the days of Potosi and the Golden Fleece of the Argonauts. It is a fact probably not generally known and credited, that it was the steady stream of gold from California to Washington during the civil war that kept our government's credit up at the critical moment in the markets of the world and effectively aided in the ultimate triumph of the Union. And the patriots over there who did this and helped to keep California in the Union were largely men who had seen service in the Mexican war and who spoke Spanish like the natives. It aided them too, in every capacity of life. The ablest generals on both sides of our war of the rebellion were Spanish-speaking generals who had learned it in California and in Mexico, including Grant, Sherman, Sheridan on the Union side and Albert Sydney Johnson and "Stonewall" Jackson on the Southern side. The latter never used any other language in his home life except when the family had visitors who spoke no Spanish. These are facts. Some philosopher has said a man is as many times a man as he "speaks languages." And English and Spanish are too good and useful languages in all the Americas. I was about to omit to say that Prof. Lytle is desirous of having the full list of names of subscribers made out by the tenth of August, in order to know just what books and other supplies to send for in time to have them here by September 1. Those desiring to subscribe to this evening school at rates heretofore published will therefore hand in their names to Prof. Lytle in person, or leave them at the office of the Mountain Advocate.

No local subscriptions will be received later than August 10, 1908.

"Good Old Summer Time."

Could Paradise be fairer? Perhaps the long and tedious winter through which we have just passed, has brightened our appreciation of this season of buds and flowers, for we enjoy all things by contrast, and perhaps this passing from the snow and cold of winter to the warmth and verdure of summer at a single bound is unprecedented in the memory of the "oldest inhabitant" and produces an unwonted thrill of pleasure. At any rate you may talk of the purple haze of Italy, the vine-clad hills of France, the sea-green tints of the Emerald Isle, the quiet lanes of England, fragrant with their blossoming hedgerows but whoever will rise with the sun these mornings can enjoy the essence of them all right here in Barbourville, amid the beautiful Cumberland Mountains, and not leave their own door yards.

No sea girt isle can boast of a fresher green than our grass and foliage. The air is vocal with the songs of birds and orrisons from the blossoming trees. Flowers of every hue are springing from their retreats and bearing to our hearts bright promises for the morrow.

To Whom It May Concern.

BY A. W. SOWARDS.

The day is not far distant when "card of thanks" will be a thing of the past. When deer enters a home neighbors never fail to do all in their power to place a silver lining back of the dark cloud, and they do not expect or desire any thanks through the press.

One subscriber, however, not to be outdone, sent in the following: "Mr. Editor: I desire to thank the friends and neighbors most heartily in this manner for their co-operation during the illness and death of my very devoted husband, who escaped from me by the hand of death last Friday, while eating breakfast. To my friends and all who contributed so willingly toward making the last moments and the funeral a complete success, I desire to remember kindly, hoping these lines will find them enjoying the same blessing. I have a good nuch cow and a roan gelding horse, eight years old, which I will sell cheap. God moves in mysterious way, His wonders to perform. He plants His footsteps on the sea and rides the storm." Also a black and white short cheap, and some feathers.

Wanted:—Live minks and live black pole-cats. I will pay more for them than you can get for the furs when you bring them in and say you saw this notice in The Mountain Advocate you will get your money.

W. M. TYE.

COURT HOUSE

Not Kept as it Should be Janitor is Needed.

When the courthouse was remodeled and repaired it was our hope and expectation that the officials would see that it was kept in proper condition, but it seems that some one is neglecting to do their duty.

The floors and sidewalks near the floor are badly stained and besmearred with tobacco ash and while dirt and dust is allowed to accumulate in heaps until it is far from being attractive, or even decent. The furniture is so covered with dust, that often you see some one's name written in it with the finger. The walls have been marked with pencil and otherwise defaced.

Is there no remedy for this? We see placards in various places about the building stating "a fine" to commit these nuisances we have already described, and yet we have never heard of any one being reprimanded or reprimanded for such conduct.

The people have paid out good money to make these improvements and it certainly is the duty of some of our officials to see to and protect this building.

It is the expectation of the officials to have the work of stenciling done over again at an early date, and when that is done we hope the inside will receive another touching up and then let the proper officials take the matter in charge and see that it is kept in order.

If it is the services of a janitor that is needed the Fiscal Court should employ one and let him see that everything is kept as it should be and when anyone is found defacing the building in any manner, either by spitting or marking, let them be arrested forthwith and taken before the Court and fined for the offense. That will stop it if nothing else will, and it should be stopped even if it takes just such means as that to stop the nuisance.

FIRE IN TELEPHONE

Exchange at Williamsburg.

[Special to Advocate.]

The Williamsburg Home Telephone Company's office was fired last Tuesday night at about two o'clock in the rear, and the fire had gained considerable headway when it was discovered.

By heroic efforts the building was saved but not until the switch-board was destroyed and damage to about $1,000 done to the company, which was however fully covered by insurance.

No cause can be assigned for this incendiary act as the company is doing good service and the patrons are well pleased. Mr. L. R. Benjamin, of this city, left for Williamsburg Wednesday and will remain there until his plant is again in good working order.

The small farmer or breeder should not fail to enter his products at the Kentucky State Fair. He often thinks there will be so many entries that he would not have a chance for a prize. His neighbor thinks the same. They then feel charged when they go to the Fair and see someone walk off with a ribbon won on some specimen much inferior to what they own.

For catalogue, entry blanks or other information, write J. W. Newman, Secretary, 320 Paul Jones Building, Louisville, Ky.

Obituary.

Uncle Martin Engle and his companion, Aunt Eliza, who met recent death and were about the same age.

Brother Martin Engle was born January 14, 1825, on Indian creek, and in less than one-half mile where he lived all his life, and died July 18, 1908, at the age of 83 years, six months and four days, and upon the 19th inst., in the presence of many friends and relatives his remains were interred at the Engle graveyard in the peaceful bosom of the earth by the side of his beloved companion, who had preceded him in death just six weeks before.

Sister Eliza Engle was born September 12, 1823, being a daughter of Uncle Peter Trooper, a well-known citizen of this day, on Middle Fork of Richland. She was raised accordingly with her father and mother between where Emanuel and Bailey's Railroad stations are now situated, and departed this life at the age of 83 years, 8 months and 22 days, on June 3, 1908.

Joined her aforesaid beloved husband in matrimony April 2, 1846, and lived on the same farm together as a true union to that wedlock more than sixty years, perhaps the longest period that ever husband and wife was permitted to live together in the history of Knox county.

To their union was born and reared reputable families of this section of the county to man and womanhood. One son and three daughters, two of whom are living.

The eldest, W. Henry Engle, aged 61 years, Mrs. Malinda Gray, widow of C. C. Gray, (now dead), Mrs. Mary J. Campbell, wife of W. J. Campbell, (yet living), and Mrs. Nancy Ellen Warfield, wife of Joseph L. Warfield, (now dead), also a few remaining grand sons and daughters, of whom the three young men of Gray Station, viz: Tilled Gray, Martin Campbell and Kohl T. Gray, in whom Knox county is proud of.

Brother Martin Engle and Sister Eliza Engle had lived faithful in the service of their Lord as christian members of the Baptist church at Indian creek for about 45 years prior to their deaths, and as such had most of that time been fulfilling their respective duties as Deacon and Deaconess of same church.

Having labored hard all of their lives under the old fashioned way of living, made and kept plenty as a farmer and gardener for himself, and to furnish others who might be in need thereof. Always made their home a welcome resting place for their many friends and neighbors.

But oh! how sad to the hearts of only living son and daughter, grand sons and grand daughters, relatives and friends when the death angel visited the bedside of their mother and grandmother on that dread night of June 3, 1908, and removed her from your midst, and a cherished adieu to her long suffering husband on his deathbed, only to remain a few more days till another death angel could call for him on July 18, 1908, to meet her in glory and live forever with those loved ones now gone before.

Just as Easy

To advertise your goods as it is to let them lie on the shelves unsold: Only this week a salesman was selling soap that takes paint, etc., off of window-glass furniture and clothing, and he did a land-office business, yet they could have bought the same right here had they known it here, in fact many people did not know that such a soap was on the market. Advertise the little things the big ones show up for themselves.

A Great Land Opening.

Washington, D. C. June 22, 1908.

A number of exceptional opportunities are now being offered by the Government for enterprising and intelligent farmers to secure choice farms on a dozen or more large irrigation projects which are nearing completion.

Owing to the rapid narrowing of the limits of the unoccupied public domain, it is doubtful if these opportunities will ever occur again. It is probable, therefore, that the West will see one of the greatest influxes of homesteaders in 1908 that has been witnessed in many years.

The great fertility and wonderful crop yields from irrigated lands, and the favorable terms the Government offers settlers, warrants the belief that before the year closes not a single farm will be without its entryman. These farms are located in North Dakota, Montana, Wyoming and Nevada.

A letter addressed to The Stationer, U. S. Reclamation Service, Washington, D. C., will secure full information concerning the location, soil, climate, crop possibilities, and terms of disposal.

2130 Syracuse "EASY" Washers

were ordered for 30 days' trial by readers of our advertising in one medium only. 112 only were returned from all causes. It must be assumed that the 2018 people who kept and paid for the washer did so because it was worth more to them than the money it cost. They all had the privilege of returning the "EASY" at our expense same as you will have if you try one. They kept it because it solved the washing problem for them. You will keep it for the same reason if you try it.

They expressed their satisfaction in the most positive terms. We will show extracts from their letters upon your request. Ask for our free book. It tells you why the "EASY" is a woman's machine. Pages 320 tell you how to cut washing expense in half and save your clothes white, white and sweet, the way you like them. Pages 323-4 tell you how washing and bleaching are done in one operation.

Pleasant Evening Reveries.—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at the Editorial Pen.

THE BRIGHT SIDE.

Let's oftener talk of nobler deeds,
And rarer of our misdeeds,
And sing about our happy days,
And not about our sad days.
We are not made to fret and sigh,
And when grief sleeps to wake it
Bright happiness is standing by—
This life is what we make it.

Let's find the sunny life of men,
Or be believers in it;
A light there is in every soul,
That takes the pains to win it;
Our hands contain the magic wand
This life is what we make it.

Here's to those whose loving heart
Shed light and joy about them;
Thanks be to them for countless
Gems
We ne'er had known without them.

Oh! this should be a happy world
To all who may partake it;
The fault's our own if it is not—
This life is what we make it.

A PLEA FOR THE BOYS.

People wonder why the boys want to leave the farm and try their fortune in the city. There is little wonder when the matter is looked into. Too little effort is made to make the homes from which the boys want to run away, attractive. The almighty dollar too often gets in the way. Boys are not wild animals; they do not need pounding because they do not do their work as well as older persons. They have not had the experience. One trouble is that many farmers have too much to say about "big I" in talking to their boys. Why not say we or us, in talking about the stock or farm, and encourage the boys to come? They will learn to take an interest. Subscribe for a paper in their name, and if there is something extra in vegetables or stock, let them take it to the fair, make the entries in their own name, and if they chance to get a premium, let them have it to do as they please with; it will stimulate a desire to attend the details of the farm, and what is lost by letting them have the money, will be made up by the extra care they will take in preparing for the next fair, and it will also increase the value of both the farm and the stock. Boys like a little fun now and then. When work and they try to have a little sport, don't scold or growl, put in a good lick yourself, the work will go off easier. Do not think too much of your dignity. Do much to make the boys think they are having a home. In short, live with your boys. A little fun and good nature will go far towards turning work into play. When you get a boy so that he loves his work he will love his home and his parents, and you will have a strong arm to rest on as you go down the slope.

Home life is the sure test of home character. Let the husband grow cross and surly, and the wife cold and unamiable. The children grow cross and savage as young bears. The father become callous, peevish, hard, kind of two-legged brute with clothing on. The wife bristles in self-defense. They develop an unnatural growth and sharpness of teeth and the house is haunted by ugliness and domestic brawls. This is not what the circle should be. It must be a place to love, let it be to some one he does not love—not his wife, brother or parents. Let one of the loved ones be taken away, and memory recalls a thousand sayings of regrets. Dead quicken recollections painfully. The grave can not hide the white faces of those who sleep. The coffin and the green ground are cruel magnets. They draw us further than we could go. They force us to remember. A man never sees so far into human life as when he looks over a wife's or a mother's grave. His eyes grow wondrous clear then and he sees as he never saw before, what it is to love and be loved. It's a pitiable picture of human weakness when those we love best are treated worst.

ENCOURAGEMENT.

Encouragement is something we naturally look for. A little praise, a word of hope or a cheerful smile—something for the hungry soul to grasp and the weary mind to rest upon, as we climb the toilsome mountain of life. How many poor hearts have sunk into despondency, when a little encouragement has reassured them. The soldier looks for it on the field of battle; it is the cheering voice of his leader that urges him on through the danger of death and crowns the day with victory. The poet, the artist, the musician and the writer look to the world to acknowledge their genius and give them praise. It is encouragement which calls forth their noblest words to climb the mount of fame until they surmount all difficulties and write their names in flaming letters upon its summit. Then let us give encouragement to each other in every effort of good, in every noble action, in the little duties of life, and we will be happier for it, the world will be better, and a smiling providence will look down and bless our labor of love.

There is a demand for good boys. The boy who is honest, earnest and industrious, will not be long out of a job. There are lots of prosperous business men, merchants and mechanics, who are constantly on the outlook for good boys. They do not look for them on the streets, however, but in some sort of employment. They have no use for an idle boy. He is too apt to make an idle man. The boy that jumps into the first job that offers, whether it is agreeable or not, is the boy who is chosen when the boy-lifter comes along. The boy trundling a wheelbarrow is taken, while the boy playing marbles in the shade is left, the boy cheerfully minding the baby on the front steps invited to put on a boy's suit, while the one playing hooky is refused a place to drive a dirt cart.

Wanted in Barbourville, in our vicinity, in our country, everywhere, a moral mill-dam and saving bank. Half of the net proceeds of the country's traffic flows from the channels of folly. Shovel your salary money, theater money, shooting gallery money, rink money, to have money, S.N.I.F.F. money, into bank, and gather something to beauty and render more pleasant the sweetest place on earth—home.

Woman's Home Companion For August.

The August issue of Woman's Home Companion is full of delightful stories—just the right sort of mid-summer reading. Just to pick up the magazine and look at the little Dutch boy and the windmill on the cover makes you feel cool and comfortable. Then, when you open the magazine, you come across enough stories and entrancing illustrations to give you enjoyment for the entire month.

Some of the authors are Temple Bailey, Juliet Wilbur Tompkins, Marion Hill, Ruth Wilson Herick, May Isabel Fisk, Clifton Dangerfield and Harvey J. O'Higgins. And when we tell you that these stories are illustrated by Orson Lowell, Alice Barber Stephens, Charlotte Webster Ditzler and other famous artists, you will appreciate what a treat this summer magazine has in store for you.

There are serious and practical things, too. Dr. Hale talks helpfully about "Sleep and Re-Creation," "The Garden in August" many recipes for summer salads, meats and substitutes for meats by Fannie Merritt Farmer and Christine Terhune Herriek, the Summer Fashions by Grace Margaret Gould, Sam Loyd's Own Puzzle Page, are a few of the things that will interest those who read this splendid magazine.

MACHINERY EXHIBITS AT THE STATE FAIR.

An unusually large exhibit of farm implements and machinery is in prospect. Owing to the incompleteness of the State Fair the exhibitors of this department do not share the same advantages afforded them by some of the older institutions in the way of large machinery halls, but every other facility and accommodation will be at their disposal. Commodious apartments will be assigned to this department, and already a large number of applications are on file, including manufacturers of engines, pumps, stock sales, tractors, mills, road machines, vehicles, harvesting machines, haymaking machines, plows, and every other thing used by the farmer. The fair or who desire to be instructed in the use of better methods and better machinery will have a great object lesson before him at this fair.

COLLIE DOGS AT THE STATE FAIR.

The collie dog exhibit at the Kentucky State Fair promises to be a greater attraction than ever before. A new departure, one entirely original, and the first ever held in this section will be a sheep trial given by an expert, which will show the usefulness of the collie to the farmer. A creditable show of this nature will appeal to every collie fancier, as four points are to be gained by owners toward championship medal by American Kennel Club. It is expected that this year's show will bring out 150 collies, including many famous Eastern dogs. The sheep trial will be started by expert Eastern dogs. Any farmer in the state desiring to train up his dogs along this line and can compete, will be eligible.

STUDENTS' JUDGING CONTEST.

Following a plan devised by the old State Fair institutions of the country and one that has proved eminently successful at all the great Western fairs, as well as a progressive step in the interests of agricultural education, Commissioner Barkin has offered $100 in cash for a scholarship to the Agricultural Department of the State University for the young man under twenty years of age doing the best work in livestock judging at the Kentucky State Fair of 1908, contestant to be required to file a written opinion with the reason therefor on horses, cattle, swine and sheep exhibits. Correctness of selection will count 65 points and reasons substantiating the same, 35 points.

The Kentucky State Fair management has arranged a free amusement program which alone is worth the price of admission.

YOU MAY HEAR OR SEE STATEMENTS MADE BY MY

Competitors that they are selling goods at low prices, but I say to the trade, that you have heard the wind blow lots of times. Now I want to say to you for all time to come, that you can always find goods at the Mammoth Store at as low prices as any of my competitors can afford to sell them, and if I sell them to you lower I hope you won't grumble at it. My motto is Quick Sales and Short Profits.

I have been connected with the goods business for 38 years, and I have heard it thunder often during the time. I have just received a fresh car-load of flour, also a car-load of flour which I expect to offer to the trade at prices I am confident will meet all competition. I am not in the business to be side-tracked.

I am noted for being ready to talk and name low prices when they come to see me on all kinds of goods I handle.
